

From the Pastor,

I have been stressing out about writing this month's article. I felt that I should address the chaos happening in Afghanistan, but I have no idea what to say about it. People seem to first be speaking out about their thoughts and attitudes about the pull out of U.S. troops. Facts are being given without any interpretation of what the facts mean for the U.S. and Afghanistan.

I am stuck with questions and am not sure what my opinion is or should be. I feel as if I and the country is in shock. We want to blame someone for our lives being on hold in 2020. I am not sure what to do with these feelings.

And so I pray. Pray for the political leaders of all countries to seek to discern to do the right thing and do it. Pray for the people living in fear and the people panicking. Pray for the soldier's helping with the withdrawal. Even pray for the Taliban to be compassionate with their enemies. God can still perform miracles so don't be afraid or too skeptical about what you pray for. Pray for the countries receiving the refugees to be welcoming, including the U.S.

Don't forget to take time to be in a prayerful state. Don't forget while in that prayerful state to pray intercessory prayers for Afghanistan and the world.

Pastor Jim

The Contractor is planning on being here on Friday, September 10th or Monday September 13th. We will try to keep use for both of the south walk doors for church service on the 12th. The sidewalks may be tore out along the south parking area and also the two sidewalks leading up to the church from the south. The South walk doors will be 'CLOSED' during the week (13th—18th).

State Convention Is almost here!

The Women of the ELCA are having their State convention. This year it is within driving distance each day, it is being held at Camp Carol Joy Holling. It will be October 1,2,3. The theme for the convention is "Listening for God's Call."

The convention presenters are Jill Miller, Keynote, workshop presenter, and musician. Chaplain Amalia Spruth-Jensen, Bible study leader, Pastor Sarah Ruch, workshop presenter Pastor Sandra Braasch. Others to look forward to hearing from as well will be a representative from church wide women's group and a video greeting from Bishop Brian Mass.

All ladies are welcome to attend. Delegates will be doing the business but the workshops, the fellowship, the entertainment, the setting can be enjoyed by all. Should you wish to participate but can't go you can help by sending along an in kind offering. Those suggested items this year are to be for campers who get scholarships to attend camp at Carol Joy but don't have the items it takes for the week of camp. Items needed for camper totes are- a Bible, flashlight, bug spray, sunscreen, 2 towels, washcloth, travel size hygiene kit- shampoo and conditioner, toothbrush and toothpaste, body wash, deodorant, and a sleeping bag. If these are left at the back of church they will be transported by those who do attend. Registration forms are available along with full details in the "Expressions" posted on the church bulletin board in the basement. Registrations are due Sept. 6 or that same week. If you have questions concerning this event give Eleta a call at 402-921-0042. She is the women's state board representative for the Southeast Nebraska Conference.

It is our hope that this convention will better prepare you to be one who can say to God "Here am I send me".

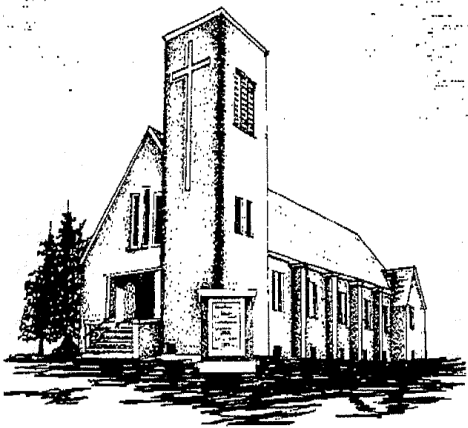

Eleta Eisenhauer
